

Neurological

Acupuncture will not regrow physically destructed nerves, but will assist the body to it's fullest level of healing. I often recommend a natural soft tissue and overall body addition to the diet and assist in a total body treatment and do local work to stimulate energy and blood flow to the area in concern. I have worked with people that have gone to the farthest reaches with western medicine and still be seriously inflicted with nerve pain or even numbness. Sometime presenting with surgery as their only option left, and coming to see me to avoid surgery. What a miracle to work with these patients and have them leave pain free, or have their condition lessen to such a degree that they don't feel they need to even consider surgery anymore. All neurological cases are very unique and each treatment design I develop to assist someone in their healing is also unique to them as well.
